

CONTENTS

Coverpages

Introduction	1
---------------------------	---

Partnerships

Promoting Municipal Tree Utilization New Jersey Forestry Services	5
Seeing the Big Picture of Urban Forest Management Urban and Community Forestry Program, State of California	9
Connecting Tree Owners With Woodworkers Harvesting Urban Timber Program, Cincinnati, Ohio	13

Municipalities

Raising Revenue From Fallen Trees Wausau, Wisconsin	19
Borrowing a Portable Mill Yields Multiple Benefits Lompoc, California	23
Utilizing Wood for Its Highest Use Bismarck, North Dakota	27
Borrowing a Wood Yard for Storage and Sales Cincinnati, Ohio	31

Tree Service Firms

Supplying Free Wood for Artisans Able Tree Service, Missoula, Montana	37
Giving New Life to Old Utility Poles Trees-n-More, Berryton, Kansas	41
Networking to Utilize All Wood Residue West Coast Arborists, Inc., Anaheim, California	47

Entrepreneurs

Part-Time Recycler Provides Benefits to Consumers
2nd Chance Woods, Berryton, Kansas 53

Selling Handcrafted Products From Salvaged Logs
Urban Forest Woodworks, Logan, Utah 57

Recycling Woody Materials From a Landfill
Slater Industries Demolition Landfill, Lewisville, North Carolina 61

Sawmills

Ready Buyers Ease Recovery From Tragedy
California Hardwood Producers, Inc., Auburn, California 69

Purchasing Municipal Logs: A Win-Win Situation
Minnesota Valley Forest Products, Inc., Courtland, Minnesota . . . 73

Obtaining Start-Up Capital Through Grants
Pacific Coast Lumber, San Luis Obispo, California 77

Concluding Thoughts 81

Other Resources 83

Subject Index 85